

Designing Workshops presents “Color—Using it Well”
Thursday, November 9, 2023, 10:00 – 11:30 AM
Saint Susanna Church, 262 Needham Street, Dedham, MA

What is the first thing that catches your eye in a floral arrangement? Color, of course! This workshop will explore different color schemes—analogue, complementary, and triadic—to illustrate how to combine colors to create harmonious combinations.

Ruth Evans, Flower Show Judge and winner of numerous flower show awards, will teach this class.

The workshop includes instruction and floral materials to create your arrangement. Cost: $55 until October 20; after that date the cost is $60, so please sign up early. Attendance is limited to 50. Sign up with a friend. Head to nearby Needham or Dedham center for lunch after class for a wonderful day.

Bring your floral scissors and a way to stabilize your arrangement enroute home.

To register please mail your check, made out to Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, Inc., along with your name, garden club (if you are a member), and email address to Margo Yie, 6 Dancer Farm Drive, Dover, MA 02030. By providing this information, I can acknowledge your registration and send a reminder of class near the date.

Supplies and flowers are ordered ahead of time, therefore refunds are not possible. If at the last minute you can't attend you can arrange to have a friend bring you your floral materials or send another person in your place. Thanks, and hope to see you there!
